SENATOR LEIBHAM DEMONSTRATES GRASSROOTS STRENGTH WITH NOMINATION PAPER FILING

Volunteers Collect More Than 2000 Nomination Signatures in Support of Senator's Re-Election

Sheboygan...This morning, State Senator Joe Leibham (R-Sheboygan) announced that his grassroots team of more than 162 volunteers had collected more than 2000 nomination signatures in support of his re-election effort, including more than 500 that he collected himself.

"This grassroots volunteer effort in support of my re-election demonstrates the local support for my work over the last four years to lower taxes, create more better paying jobs, make health care affordable and accessible, and reform our election system by requiring a photo ID to vote," Senator Leibham said. "With the help of these volunteers, I look forward to informing voters across the 9th Senate District of my work on these important issues and my goals for the future. I'm running for re-election to the Wisconsin State Senate to reduce taxes further and finally remove Wisconsin from the list of our nation's "Top Ten Highest Taxed States."

Senator Leibham's campaign submitted 800 signatures, the maximum allowable for submission under state guidelines, to the Wisconsin State Elections Board, which have since been certified ensuring that Senator Leibham's name will appear on the November 7th ballot.

"I always enjoy meeting and visiting with voters across the district and appreciate the help of this volunteer grassroots team who joined me in this effort by collecting more than 2,000 signatures in support of my re-election." Senator Leibham said. "Again, I appreciate the support from these grassroots volunteers and I look forward to a spirited campaign over the next four months."
